NOTICE

Dear Students,

This is in reference to the upcoming three-day Delhi University Literature Festival (DULF), scheduled to be held from 12 to 14 February 2026 at the Multipurpose Hall, University of Delhi.

The festival will include various academic and literary sessions such as book launches and author interactions, with active involvement of students of the University of Delhi. Participation in the event is open to all Undergraduate, Postgraduate, and Ph.D. students, including students from Regular Colleges and the School of Open Learning (SoL). The University is providing a common platform for students who have published books in their respective fields, offering them an opportunity for wider academic and literary exposure.

The registration link for the festival is provided below:
