Seminar Lecture Organized by the Northeast Society of Satyawati College (M)

Title: Indigenous: Perception, Problems, and Prospects

Speaker: Prof. Deepshika Mahanta Bortamuly

Affiliation: Department of English, Daulat Ram College, University of Delhi

Venue: Seminar room

Date: 28th February, 2025

The Northeast Society of Satyawati College (M) organized an insightful talk on the topic "Indigenous: Perception, Problems, and Prospects." The session was delivered by Prof. Deepshika Mahanta Bortamuly from the Department of English, Daulat Ram College, University of Delhi. The seminar aimed to shed light on the historical, social, and contemporary issues concerning indigenous communities while also exploring potential solutions and future opportunities for their development. Prof. Bortamuly initiated the session by providing a comprehensive understanding of the term 'Indigenous' and its relevance in the socio-political and cultural discourse. She emphasized how indigenous communities have historically faced marginalization and the struggle to preserve their identity in an increasingly globalized world. She focused on perception of indigenous communities, problem faced by these communities such as challenges of political representation and policy neglect and also discussed about prospects and the way forward such as the impact of government policies and affirmative action in empowering indigenous groups. The seminar was followed by an interactive session, where students raised thought-provoking questions and Prof. Bortamuly provided insightful responses and encouraged students to engage in further research and advocacy for indigenous issues. The seminar proved to be an enlightening experience for all attendees, fostering a deeper understanding of indigenous concerns. Prof. Deepshika Mahanta Bortamuly's lecture not only highlighted the challenges faced by indigenous communities but also instilled a sense of responsibility among students to contribute to a more inclusive and equitable society. The Northeast Society expressed gratitude to the speaker for her valuable insights and to the organizing team for making the event a success.

Asst. Cultural Secretary of Northeast Society Satyawati College, Chingtham Erawati presented a Manipuri ensemble together with Suprim Boruah, the President of the North East Cell of Ramjas College, at two different events; "Octet'25" organised by the Ethnic Eight, Northeast Society of Jesus and Mary College and "Orion", the annual fest of the Northeast cell of Lady Shree Ram College for Women.

Etinpham, popularly known as e-tinfm, is a Delhi-based Manipuri indie band that emerged from a creative collaboration between the Northeast societies of Satyawati College and Zakir Husain College. The band is made up of passionate and talented young musicians: Rohit RK, a second-year BA Programme student from Satyawati College and the cultural head of the society, serves as the main vocalist; Sushan Ch, a second-year Psychology Honours student from Zakir Husain College, brings his skill as the lead guitarist; and Henba Laitonjam, an alumna of Satyawati College and former Cultural Head of its Northeast Society, drives the rhythm as the drummer.

Etinpham has been steadily gaining recognition for their soulful fusion of Manipuri sounds with indie music, performing as guest artists at various Delhi University colleges. On 27th February 2025, they took the stage at Janki Devi Memorial College, following up on the momentum and acclaim they had built from previous performances. Their growing reputation led to an invitation to Miranda House, where they performed as special guests on 29th March 2025, earning enthusiastic feedback from the audience.

Riding the wave of appreciation and growing support, Etinpham is now gearing up for their next performance as special guest artists at Zakir Husain College on 8th April 2025, continuing their mission to share the spirit of Northeast culture through music.
